The organ has been heard in concert several times to the delight of the organ community and general audiences. The organ continues to be used extensively in the liturgical role for which it was principally designed, and will be featured at three concerts by the newly launched chamber orchestra L'Orchestre des Portes Rouges, with David Enlow playing an organ concerto as part of each program.

The Mediæval Mass

Guillaume Dufay, Missa Ecce Ancilla Domini

As always, The Medieval Mass is presented after the use of the period, without anachronisms such as English language, the modern pipe organ, or electric light. Visit www.resurrectionnyc.org for more information. This year the mass is presented as part of the New York Festival of Mediæval Music & Liturgy, a four-day conference featuring lectures and presentations on relevant topics. Special guests include the renowned group Cappella Pratensis from Belgium and Professor M. Jennifer Bloxam of Williams College.
